Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with James Kulbaski (34,648) on 2/4/11.

The application has been amended as follows:

As to the specification, page 18, line 15, after "gear", change "HIY" to - - 111Y - -.

As to the specification, page 18, line 19, after "gear", change "HIY" to - - 111Y - -.

As to the specification, page 23, line 7, after "gear", change "HIY" to - - 111Y - -.

As to the specification, page 23, line 11, after "gear", change "HIY" to - - 111Y - -.

REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The primary reason for allowance of claims 2 and 48-51 is the inclusion of a receptacle holder that includes a passage configured to receive a nozzle that is a part of a toner replenishing unit in an image forming apparatus. The receptacle holder can be attached to the image forming apparatus. A passage extends along a direction parallel to a direction of a longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle and connects an interior of the receptacle holder to the toner replenishing unit using the nozzle. The receptacle holder has an engaging section that has a plurality of positioning-pin receiving openings configured to engage with a plurality of positioning-pins of the image forming apparatus that stick out along the direction parallel to the direction of the longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle. The plurality of positioning-pin receiving openings is disposed at positions shifted from a center of the longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle. This in combination with the rest of the limitations of the claims is found in all of claims 2 and 48-51, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claims 3, 13-15, 52, and 53 is the inclusion of a receptacle holder that includes a passage receiving a nozzle that is a part of a toner replenishing unit in an image forming apparatus. The receptacle holder can be attached to the image forming apparatus. The passage extends along a direction parallel to a direction of a longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle and connects an interior of the receptacle holder to the toner replenishing unit using the nozzle. The receptacle holder has an engaging section that has a protruding section configured to engage with a recessed section of the image forming apparatus that is recessed along the direction parallel to the direction of the longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle. The protruding section is arranged at a position shifted from a center of a circumference of the cylindrical toner receptacle. This in combination with the rest of the limitations of the claims is found in all of claims 3, 13-15, 52, and 53, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claims 6-12 and 54-58 is the inclusion of a receptacle holder that includes a passage receiving a nozzle that is a part of a toner replenishing unit in an image forming apparatus. The receptacle holder can be attached to the image forming apparatus. The passage extends along a direction parallel to a direction of a longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle and connects an interior of the receptacle holder to the toner replenishing unit using the nozzle. The receptacle holder includes a toner storage section configured to store the toner before the toner is discharged out of the receptacle holder, and the passage is connected to the toner storage section. The toner container has a connecting passage that connects the passage and the toner storage section of the receptacle holder. The passage, the connecting passage, and the toner storage section are positioned in a line in this order in a direction orthogonal to the direction of the longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle. This in combination with the rest of the limitations of the claims is found in all of claims 6-12 and 54-58, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claims 16, 18, and 19 is the inclusion of a connecting passage that connects the passage and a toner storage section in a receptacle holder. The toner is sent from the cylindrical toner receptacle to the toner storage section of the receptacle-holder through the toner discharging path, then the toner drops to the connecting passage, flows into the nozzle through the connecting passage to be discharged out of the receptacle member holder, and an airtightness between the passage on a downstream side in a direction of transportation of toner from the connecting passage and the nozzle inserted into the passage is superior than an airtightness between the toner receptacle on an upstream side in the direction of transportation of toner from the connecting passage and the receptacle holder. This in combination with the rest of the limitations of the claims is found in all of claims 16, 18, and 19, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claims 17 and 20 is the inclusion of a toner container having a porous seal made of a porous material provided between the toner receptacle and the receptacle holder; and a non-porous seal made of a non-porous material provided between the passage and a position at which the nozzle is received, wherein an airtightness between the passage and the nozzle is superior to an airtightness between the toner receptacle and the receptacle holder. This in combination with the rest of the limitations of the claims is found in all of claims 17 and 20, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claims 21 and 22 is the inclusion of the receptacle holder that includes a toner storage section that stores the toner before the toner is discharged out of the receptacle holder. A passage is connected to the toner storage section, the suction unit sucks the toner in the receptacle holding holder through the nozzle inserted into the passage, and the passage is connected with the nozzle and functions to connect an interior of the receptacle member holder to the toner replenishing unit. The toner container has a connecting passage that connects the passage and the toner storage section of the receptacle holder. The passage, the connecting passage, and the toner storage section are positioned in a line in this order in a direction orthogonal to the direction of the longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle. This in combination with the rest of the limitations of the claims is found in all of claims 21 and 22, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claims 26-37 is the inclusion of the method of recycling a toner container including a receptacle holder that includes a toner storage section that stores the toner before the toner is discharged out of the receptacle holder. A passage is connected to the toner storage section. The receptacle holder holds a cylindrical toner receptacle. The toner container has a connecting passage that connects the passage and the toner storage section of the receptacle holder. The passage, the connecting passage, and the toner storage section are positioned in a line in this order in a direction orthogonal to the direction of the longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle. The steps include creating a hole in the toner receptacle, refilling the toner in the toner receptacle through the hole, and closing the hole. This in combination with the rest of the limitations of the claims is found in all of claims 26-37, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claims 39, 40, and 47 is the inclusion of a receptacle holder that includes a passage configured to receive a nozzle that is a part of a toner replenishing unit in an image forming apparatus. The receptacle holder can be attached to the image forming apparatus. A passage extends along a direction parallel to a direction of a longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle and connects an interior of the receptacle holder to the toner replenishing unit using the nozzle. The toner container has a gear protruding through an outer surface of the cylindrical portion, a rotation of the gear causing toner in the cylindrical toner receptacle to be discharged from the interior of the cylindrical toner receptacle to the receptacle holder. This in combination with the rest of the limitations of the claims is found in all of claims 39, 40, and 47, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claims 42-46 and 59-62 is the inclusion of a receptacle holder that includes a passage configured to receive a nozzle that is a part of a toner replenishing unit in an image forming apparatus. The receptacle holder can be attached to the image forming apparatus. A passage extends along a direction parallel to a direction of a longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle and connects an interior of the receptacle holder to the toner replenishing unit using the nozzle. The receptacle holder has a projection at an outer circumference of the receptacle holder at a cylindrical portion of the receptacle holder having a largest diameter, the projection extending outward from the receptacle holder and along a direction parallel to a length of the cylindrical toner receptacle. The projection indicates a color of toner corresponding to the toner container. This in combination with the rest of the limitations of the claims is found in all of claims 42-46 and 59-62, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claim 63 is the inclusion of a method of recycling a toner container including a receptacle holder that holds a cylindrical toner receptacle. The cylindrical toner receptacle includes a toner discharging path that discharges toner from the interior to the receptacle holder. The receptacle holder has an engaging section having a protruding section configured to engage with a recessed section of the image forming apparatus that is recessed along the direction parallel to the direction of the longitudinal axis of the cylindrical toner receptacle. The protruding section is arranged at a position shifted from a center of a circumference of the cylindrical toner receptacle. The steps include creating a hole in the cylindrical toner receptacle, refilling the toner in the toner receptacle through the hole, and closing the hole. This in combination with the rest of the limitations of the claim is found in all of claim 63, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claim 64 is the inclusion of a method of recycling a toner container including a receptacle holder that holds a cylindrical toner receptacle. The cylindrical toner receptacle includes a toner discharging path that discharges toner from the interior to the receptacle holder. The receptacle holder has a projection at an outer circumference of the receptacle holder at a cylindrical portion of the receptacle holder having a largest diameter. The projection extends outward from the receptacle holder and along a direction parallel to a length of the cylindrical toner receptacle. The projection configured to indicate a color of toner corresponding to the toner container. The steps include creating a hole in the cylindrical toner receptacle, refilling the toner in the toner receptacle through the hole, and closing the hole. This in combination with the rest of the limitations of the claim is found in all of claim 64, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.
